

HISTORY (PH.D.)

The Doctor of Philosophy in History is an academic degree and the culmination of a historian's academic training. Our doctoral program prepares students professionally for both academic and non-academic careers, with an emphasis on career diversity.

Completing the Ph.D. typically involves at least four years of full-time study for students entering with a master's degree and at least six years for students entering with a bachelor's degree. Students who are admitted without a master's degree may choose to earn an M.A. by completing a thesis or essay as part of their coursework.

Admission Requirements

Admission to this program is contingent upon admission to the Graduate School (<http://bulletins.wayne.edu/graduate/general-information/admission/>). Earning a graduate degree is an undertaking which requires a considerable commitment of time and financial resources. The Department of History expects applicants to its graduate program to arrive well-prepared to undertake a rigorous course of study.

The department normally considers only applicants whose undergraduate and/or master's grade point average is at least 3.00 overall and at least 3.25 in a minimum of eighteen semester credits in history and related subjects. Attainment of an M.A. in History is not required of doctoral applicants. Applicants should have or be in the process of acquiring relevant foreign language preparation to enter the area in which they wish to study. The department requires that all applicants submit a statement of purpose, a writing sample, two letters of recommendation from former instructors, a resume or curriculum vitae, Graduate Record Examination scores, and copies of transcripts from each college or university previously attended. Please consult the Department of History (<https://clas.wayne.edu/history/>) graduate handbook for detailed instructions for preparing application materials.

The application deadline is January 15 for Fall admission.

The Ph.D. program requires ninety credits of course work beyond the B.A. degree.
