

SOCIAL WORK (M.S.W.)

The School offers full-time and planned part-time study programs leading to the Master of Social Work. This program prepares graduates for advanced professional practice in social work. The full-time degree program consists of four semesters of study in which field work is concurrent with class work. Students spend two full days a week in the field and two days in classes for two consecutive years. With approval of the graduate officer, students in the second year may elect to have three full days a week in the field. Required classes in the full-time program may be offered in day, evening, and Saturday sessions. Web-based online courses are also offered.

The planned part-time program permits students to complete degree requirements over a three-year or a four-year period. Part-time study is open only to students who have been formally admitted to the program by the Admissions Director. Details of the several phases of class and field work involved in this program, as well as specific information on admissions requirements, may be obtained from the Office of Admissions and Student Services, School of Social Work.

Academic Advisor when developing a Plan of Work or selecting electives. The primary responsibility for counseling with the Academic Services Officer or Academic Advisor and for seeking information on policies, procedures, degree requirements, and all academic matters rests with the student.

The faculty of the School of Social Work has the responsibility to require a student to withdraw at any time prior to receipt of the degree when, in its judgment, the student fails to do satisfactory work. Such decisions may be based on deficiencies in performance in class or field or in personal fitness for the profession. The faculty has adopted a set of criteria and procedures for academic termination. Every effort is made to assist students whose work suffers as a result of conditions beyond their control such as personal illness, serious illness in the immediate family, or similar emergencies. The School's Policies and Procedures related to Academic Performance (Termination, Grade Appeals, and Reinstatement) and Student Professional Performance Standards are available in the Office of the Dean and the Office of Admissions and Student Services.

Pre-master's students may not enroll in the field work courses and certain other courses in which specific prerequisites and/or corequisites preclude their registration. If the student is subsequently admitted to a program leading to the Master of Social Work, credits earned in a pre-master's classification may be applied toward the degree.

Transfer credit must be of a 'B' grade or better and certified as graduate level credit on an official transcript. Courses approved for transfer from outside or within the University cannot have been applied as credit toward a prior degree. Extension credits earned at institutions outside the State of Michigan cannot be applied toward a graduate degree.

Transfer credits do not alter the residency policy and time limitations governing School of Social Work degrees. Students may petition for the transfer of graduate credit only after they have been admitted to the M.S.W. degree program.

A student who has been admitted to the Master of Social Work program shall be considered to have withdrawn from the program if the student is not enrolled in a course and/or field work during any semester of a planned program of study within the framework of the plan which has been approved. In order to withdraw in good standing, either permanently or temporarily, students must formalize their withdrawal with the School of Social Work Office of Admissions and Student Services. Field Education

Field Education Health Clearance Policy

The School may require students in field placement to obtain assessments of their physical or mental health from health or mental health professionals approved by the School. The School of Social Work reserves the right to refuse to place or direct a student in field education if the physical or mental health status of the student indicates such action is warranted in order to safeguard clients, agencies, the student, other students, or the School.

Program Requirements

The Master of Social Work degree requires a minimum of sixty credits of graduate course work, completed in accordance with the regulations of the Graduate School (<http://bulletins.wayne.edu/graduate/general-information/academic-regulations/>) and the School of Social Work. The program includes a generalist curriculum at the first level, and at the second level, one of two specialized concentrations: Interpersonal Practice or Innovation in Community, Policy and Leadership. The generalist curriculum provides the foundation for the specialized curriculum.

Generalist Curriculum

The generalist curriculum provides a knowledge base for later study of advanced practice in the concentration. The generalist curriculum has content in the six major curricular areas: social work practice, human rights and social justice, human behavior and the social environment, social welfare policy and services, research, and field education. The generalist curriculum stresses fundamentals and knowledge of social work practice as they relate to individuals, families, small groups, organizations, and communities. In field education, theory is translated into practice and includes micro, mezzo and macro practice experiences.

Students may waive one or more of these generalist courses by successfully completing a waiver exam. Successful completion of a waiver exam will signify the course is waived without graduate credit thus freeing the student to take other courses to meet degree requirements.

Declaring Your Concentration

During the generalist year, students declare their interest in a concentration by the end of the Fall semester. Full-time MSW students take their first concentration course – either SW 7160 DSM in Clinical Social Work Practice or SW 7840 Community and Organizational Measures during the Winter semester of their first year. Students admitted with advanced standing status declare their interest in a concentration when they enroll and take their first concentration course during the summer semester of their first year

Advanced Curriculum - Concentrations

The advanced curriculum builds on the knowledge, values, and skills gained in the generalist curriculum, with the objective of increasing the student's competence for dealing with greater complexities of social work practice by focusing on areas of social concern. This advanced portion of the M.S.W. program is designed to provide specialized advanced knowledge and practice skills. Students choose one of two concentrations in the advanced year.

Students must meet the requirements for a concentration:

1. satisfactory completion of specific concentration courses in practice methods and policy
2. satisfactory completion of a field education placement in the concentration for each of the semesters of the advanced curriculum.

OPTION I: Interpersonal Practice (IP)

The Interpersonal Practice (IP) concentration is for students who want to focus their practice primarily on individuals, families, and groups. The concentration provides students with broad-based knowledge and skills needed for IP practice in a variety of settings, with opportunities to focus on specific practice areas, theoretical approaches or modes of intervention.

This concentration area offers students grounding in contemporary Interpersonal Practice theories and methods. Students are required to take three foundation Interpersonal Practice courses: DSM in Clinical Social Work Practice (taken during the winter semester of the first year of the MSW program or in the summer semester prior to the second year), Interpersonal Practice Theories and Application, Assessment Skills for Interpersonal Practice, and one intervention course (SW 8345, SW 8355 or SW 8335). Students may then choose from a range of interpersonal practice electives that focus on contemporary techniques and evidence-based interventions in interpersonal practice with children, families, and adults across a wide range of social work settings and practice areas. Students may also choose to take electives from the Innovations in Community Policy, and Leadership specialization or from specific focus areas to deepen their knowledge and skills in specific areas.

Students select field placements in areas of their special interest: among these choices: families at risk, child welfare, substance abuse services, schools, mental health, health care, and gerontology.

OPTION II: Innovation in Community, Policy and Leadership (I-CPL)

The Innovation in Community, Policy and Leadership (I-CPL) concentration contextualizes student learning into three streams of practice including developing and sustaining effective communities, developing and sustaining effective policies and developing and sustaining effective organizations through leadership. Students may choose from a range of ICPL electives or electives from the Interpersonal Practice curriculum or from social work focus areas that will extend and enhance their knowledge and skills in specific areas.

I-CPL students will deepen their understanding of settings where this practice can take place through field placements which relate to urban social planning, community development, policy analysis and advocacy, program development and system coordination.
