The Division of Kinesiology, Health and Sport Studies offers courses at the undergraduate level leading to Bachelor of Science degrees in several professional areas: Kinesiology (with concentrations in Exercise and Sport Science and Physical Education and Physical Activity Leadership) and Health Education (with concentrations in School Health and Community Health). The Division also offers certification minors and/or endorsements in Physical Education, Health Education, or Adapted Physical Education. Additionally, the Division offers courses in lifestyle fitness activities available to all Wayne State University students.

The Lifestyle Fitness Activities (LFA) program is an integral part of the Division; it provides students with the opportunity to enhance physical well-being and to acquire developmental skills, knowledge, and attitudes which can be utilized throughout life. Participation in these courses also enhances self-esteem, self-responsibility, and self-determination. LFA courses are offered to both undergraduate and graduate Wayne State students; however, these courses are not offered for graduate credit. LFA courses may also be elected by non-matriculated and visiting students.
