NEUROSCIENCE

Neuroscience is an interdisciplinary science dedicated to discovering how the brain produces thought, emotion, and behavior on the levels of systems, cells, and molecules. The neuroscience programs are offered jointly through the Departments of Biological Sciences and Psychology. More information is available on the CLAS website (https://clas.wayne.edu/neuroscience/).

- Neuroscience (B.S.) (http://bulletins.wayne.edu/undergraduate/college-liberal-arts-sciences/neuroscience/neuroscience-bs/)
- Neuroscience Minor (http://bulletins.wayne.edu/undergraduate/college-liberal-arts-sciences/neuroscience/neuroscience-minor/)